Sparkassenakademie Schloß Waldthausen

English version

Schloß Waldthausen and its History

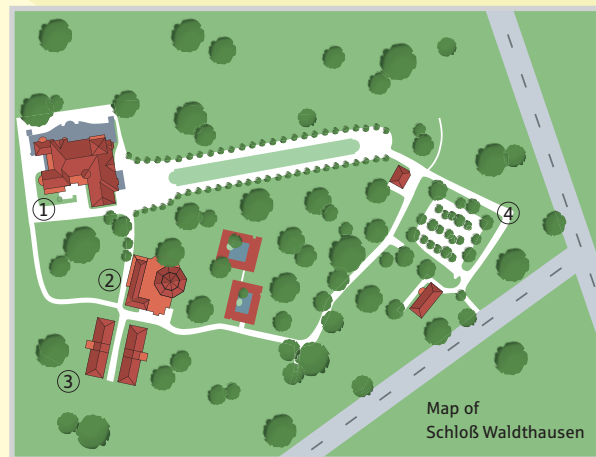

Schloß Waldthausen, situated in the Lenneberg forest above Budenheim, is located in one of the most striking areas on the left bank of the Rhine, between Mainz and the confluence with the Nahe. It was named after its builder, Martin Wilhelm, Baron of Waldthausen, who was born in Essen in 1875. As the son of a wealthy industrial family, he embodied the increased self-awareness of the upper middle classes during the Wilhelmine period. In 1912, he moved into his "castle-like villa;" a monumental building with a large square tower as its "keep", surrounded by a large estate with a gatehouse, a park, terraces, a fish pond, an engine house and a stable with outbuildings. The fate of the castle was only linked for a short time to that of its builder, who left his estate upon the outbreak of the First World War. The castle then experienced a turbulent history with frequent changes of resident. Since 1988, the Sparkassenakademie has used Schloß Waldthausen to carry out its staff training.
